

Introduction

In Edinburgh, there is a significant amount of employability support for young people provided by a number of third sector organisations across the Joined Up for Young People (JUFP) network. This is funded by a variety of routes including City of Edinburgh Council, Skills Development Scotland and Scottish Government. This Youth Employment Action Plan (YEAP) outlines a pipeline approach for every young person in Edinburgh as part of The Young Person's Guarantee commitment. The YEAP complements further contracted provision funded by City of Edinburgh Council including the Joined Up for Jobs (JUJ) network as well as national provision.

As part of the Scottish Government's commitment to supporting all young people to access employment, volunteering, training or education the YEAP and JUFP are now coordinated by a dedicated team responsible for the Young Person's Guarantee in Edinburgh. The YEAP tracks all opportunities for young people (aged 16-24 or 26 if care-experienced) in one place, making it easier for referral partners to source the most suitable destination for their young people.

Organisations are continuing to work extremely hard to respond to the impact of the pandemic on young people, and to ensure delivery of a range of employability and wellbeing support for young people continues within national guidelines. Many organisations are gradually returning to in-person delivery, while continuing to offer a blended model of face-to-face and remote support.

For further details about the YEAP projects listed below, please refer to the JUJ Directory or contact the organisation directly. If there are changes to current YEAP provision or for further information please speak to the Young Person's Guarantee team (YPG@capitalcitypartnership.org).

For latest updates on the impact of COVID19 on employability services, including papers regularly produced by Capital City Partnership, please see the JUJ website. Links to useful websites on last page of YEAP.
